BROUGHT VERDICT FOR ACQUITTAL

MINNIE WOLF CLEARED UNDER PLEA OF JUSTIFICATION OF MURDER OF BEN MILES.

The trial of Minnie Wolf, charged with the murder of Ben Miles in Chattanooga last summer, took place before Judge McReynolds in that city Monday.

The story of the killing has already been told in these columns, but is substantially as follows, from the evidence in the trial:

The defendant, Minnie Wolf, formerly Minnie Brock, of this county, was sick and in bed on the morning of the tragedy, when Miles came in and began quarreling with her sister, Gertrude, formerly his paramour, but who had taken up with another man. Finally Miles threatened her sister's life, saying: "I am going to kill you. This is as good a time as any." He struck Gertrude, and on her mother going and catching his arm, knocked her down. Minnie then got out of bed, and told him not to strike her mother, and Miles then said he would kill the whole family, and reached for the ax. Minnie thereupon shot him with Gertrude's pistol, which was in the top drawer of the dresser near her. Every effort was made by Attorney General Whitake to break down this testimony of the defense by sharp cross examination, but it was not successful. Many facts were brought out regarding the previous life of the defendant, among which that she had been forced to leave this county several years ago on account of her manner of living. It was the story of a headstrong girl, a woman's downfall and a life of shame and degradation wrong from her lips by the keen questioning of the Attorney General.

All during the trial the defendant sat beside her attorney with absolute composure, though listening to every word with deepest interest, occasionally leaning forward in her chair to catch some statement from the witnesses. Time and again she prompted Mr. Titus in his cross examination to the state's witnesses, though all through the trial until the judge's charge, the only feature of her face betraying any expression at all were her eyes. These were particularly brilliant and immediately attracted the attention of anyone watching her. Almost from start to finish of her testimony, the defendant maintained perfect composure. Once or twice, however, under the cutting, scathing cross fire from the Attorney General, those wonderfully brilliant eyes blazed, as the witness indignantly denied his questions.

The verdict of the jury was for acquittal, which was brought in Tuesday morning as the jury reported at 6 o'clock Monday afternoon that they were unable to agree, standing 11 to 1 for acquittal.

Howell Titus represented the defendant.

English Gardens.

The unusual spectacle of a pear tree in full blossom was to be seen on Christmas day at Kennington, Ashford (Kent). The gardens generally in the district have a spring appearance, owing to the mildness of the weather, among the flowers in bloom being the polyanthus, pansy, wallflower, roses and marguerites. Christmas day in the mid-Cheshire district was characterized by extraordinary mildness. There were to be seen some strange floral phenomena. Even in comparatively exposed gardens wall flowers, primroses, polyanthus, snowdrops and even late rosebuds and bloom upon strawberry plants were to be seen. Roses were also picked in the open on Christmas day in a garden in Haydon Park road, Wimborne.—London Globe.

Couldn't Eat Hog.

Rabbi Hirsch, of Chicago, one day in a crowded street car arose to give his seat to a young woman who had just entered. Much to the Jewish divine's disgust, a rough looking man scrambled into the seat before the young woman could avail herself of it. For some moments the rabbi glared at the offender in a manner clearly showing his displeasure.

Finally the rude individual grew restive under the keen gaze of the Hebrew. "Not are yer starin' at me for?" he demanded. "You look like you'd eat me!"

"I am forbidden to do that," quietly responded Rabbi Hirsch. "I am a Jew."

FARMERS' ORGANIZATION, LABOR'S INJUSTICE, AND HARDER TIMES PREDICTED.

Editor News: Today I have seen the News for the first time this year, owing to my not being near any who take it.

Our "Friend L" has a very interesting letter in the News of the 16th on the labor question. Did it ever occur to "Friend L" that there are two sides to all questions, and that those who employ labor are entitled to some consideration, as well as the employee?

I belong to the Farmers' Union, and we union people desire better prices for our cotton, corn, pork, beef and other farm products, and are holding for 15-cent cotton. If our cotton reaches the 15-cent mark, corn, $1 per bushel; meat, 12c to 13c per pound, and other provisions in proportion, coal diggers ought to get a raise in their wages, so as to even up. The manufacturer will be compelled to raise the price of manufactured articles, which about keeps labor on the same plane as if the rise had never been made.

Now, "Friend L," suppose you owned a coal mine and were paying, say, 45c per ton for digging coal. You agree to furnish say 100 tons of coke a week for twelve months to foundry men, at a price based on what you pay for digging. You give a bond with good security to double the coke regularly on time. After you make bond, suppose your employees should strike for higher wages, sufficient to not only take away all your profit, but perhaps to cause you to lose on each ton your bond requires you to deliver? Would you think your employees treated you fair? I know of an instance where, after the coal company had given bond to deliver coke at a certain price, the miners struck and demanded a price for digging that would have bankrupted the company, had not "scabs," as you call a free and independent laborer, come to the rescue.

Contractors of every kind are dependent upon labor in order to fulfill their contracts. Builders contract to erect buildings at the price they have to pay for material and labor. They invariably have to give a heavy bond to complete the job by a certain fixed date. As soon as the bond is given labor knows they are compelled to comply or forfeit their bond and pay damages for failure. They strike and "scabs" sufficient are employed to keep the contractors from bankruptcy. Now, I want to say to "Friend L," that if you were the employer instead of the employee, you would use quite a different pair of spectacles. I joined the Farmer's Union, not to put prices up or down, but to educate the farmers as to the real cause of all our labor and financial trouble. We are now experiencing a small panic, which will, if I am not much mistaken, exceed the one we had under the Cleveland administration. It will set in in earnest in 1908 and 1909, and tramps will be in greater force than was ever known in our land before. I hope and pray that I may be mistaken in my prognostications and diagnose of the case, yet the very same causes are at work today that brought on every financial panic we ever had in the United States since the foundation of our government, and judging the future by the past I am led to believe it will produce the panic of 1908, which will cause a disaster to capitalists and labor alike in 1909, the end of which I cannot tell.

I will tell you the only cause of any of our panics and ask our "Friend L" and all laborers' unions and "scabs" to study a remedy that is easy of application. The cause is interest that labor pays on the money in circulation. If I thought labor was ready to accept and apply the remedy, I would cheerfully tell them how good times, free from the germ that produces the panic, can be brought about. Labor is not ready to learn the lesson yet. It is not because of want of sense. They are not ready. Many a laborer has more sense than I and is as capable of learning as I or any capitalist. They have been taught wrong. In my experience as a teacher, it is harder to unlearn a thing, than to teach one who never knew anything to begin with. I am too poor financially to visit every union lodge in the country, or I would willingly visit them and demonstrate the cause on a blackboard, making it so plain, that one even though a fool could not err therein. It is probable the union and "scab" labor might chip in sufficient to pay for my time and expense. If they will, let them say so through the News.

Building Church.

WHITWELL, Tenn., Jan. 20. The members of the M. E. Church, south, at Red Hill, have decided on the erection of a church, and have raised $900 for the purpose. It will be located on a lot donated by P. H. Grayson for the purpose a short distance north of the present church at Red Hill. The lot has already been fenced in, and lumber for the building, which will be 42x36, is being placed on the ground.

It is very important and in fact, it is absolutely necessary to health that we give relief to the stomach promptly at the first signs of trouble, which are belching of gas, nausea, sour stomach, headache, irritability and nervousness. These are warnings that the stomach has been mistreated; it is doing too much work and it is demanding help from you. Take something once in a while, especially after meals; something like KODOL. For Dyspepsia and Indigestion. It will enable your stomach to do its work properly. Sold by J. W. Simpson, Jasper, Tenn.

LOCKOUT ALABAMA MINERS

Six Hundred Men Idle, Who Refuse to Accept Cut in Wages.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 17.—W. R. Fairley, Alabama member of the national executive committee of the United Mine Workers of America, today gave out a statement in regard to the lockout of union miners by the Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron company at the Brookwood, Searles and Mary Lee mines. Six hundred men are idle at these places. Mr. Fairley states that the company wanted the men to accept a ten-cent per ton reduction, which they would not consent to do, upon which the company announced that their mines would be operated on the open shop plan. According to Mr. Fairley the miners have a contract with the company which fixes the price of mining on the average selling price of pig iron. When the average iron price is $11.50 per ton, the mining price begins to drop, said Mr. Fairley, but the president of the Alabama Consolidated, in a telegram to the daily press, announces an average price of $13.50 per ton for iron, and Mr. Fairley says that it is asking too much for the miners to accept a 17½ per cent. cut in wages.

WITHDRAWS FROM MARKET

One Furnace Has Orders for Next Three Months.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 17.—An announcement was made here today that one of the smaller iron manufacturing companies, a concern with three stacks, had withdrawn from the market for the first three months of the year. This means that the sales with this company have been so numerous that the probable make for the first quarter of the year has been provided for and it is not desired to sell beyond that period. The company reported out of the market for the first quarter is said to have been selling the product under the published quotations of $13.50 per ton, No. 2 foundry. The Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron company is reported as having recently made several fine sales, one order for eighteen thousand tons at $13.50 per ton, No. 2 foundry, has been reported by President Joseph H. Hadley. It is given out that this company will be compelled to blow in a couple more furnaces shortly, but one iron-maker of this company being in blast at present.

"The Laborer is Worthy of His Hire."

In all I've said about things I've tried to be conscientious and "Whitling Bill" seems to have misunderstood my position and therefore we disagree on a subject of religion. What is wrong at the church is also wrong in the home.

All christian homes are dedicated to God, or ought to be, and deep thinkers all recognize this fact. The revelation of Christ is a mission to the home, brother, and the Scriptures so teach us. Bad men may quote it for their evil ends, foolish men may twist its meaning and assure us of its infallibility, but its words will stand. It will stand forever. The Bible is not a theology. Neither is religion. A man may be very religious and have a very atrocious theology, and while I admit it is best for us to express our religious knowledge and experiences in the best theology we are able to devise, yet under our human form we may lack words to convey the exact consciousness of our soul and mind.

Brother, theology cannot give us the magnifying influences of the Holy Spirit. Creeds, brother, are only formulated theologies. A theology that is not plastic is not in harmony with the Bible, consequently the theology of churches or of men, does not injure the word of God. Criticism has failed to shake it. It's inspiration is the same as it ever was.

Your declaration of cutting off the supplies of the ministry places you in opposition to the word of truth and shows that you only partially believe its teachings. It's teachings are plain and simple so a child can understand them, and while you express great concern for the poor, brother, remember they must have the gospel. Preachers can't live on air and water and your idea conflicts with the Word.

I know, brother, this is an intensely critical age, and demands proof and evidence, but the sum of human wisdom is not resident in us and our forefathers were not fools. They accepted on faith that for which we now demand proof. I could enlarge on the subject but as you and I cannot change a single decree of God or alter His word, the best thing I know for us to do is to accept the whole of his teachings and agree that the laborer is worthy of his hire, and not offer to muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn.

I am sorry that some of our elderly females repudiate the idea of supporting the ministry when Jesus manifested such love to the daughters of Jerusalem. He even commissioned Mary to go and tell of his resurrection. I met a lady from Indiana who was pooping the idea of a salaried ministry. I said gently to her, "My sister, don't do that. Don't place yourself in opposition to the Bible, for the hope of this nation is in the fidelity of the women to the word of God and religion." She hushed up and said no more.

We can only rise spiritually by self-sacrifices and if we hope to inherit the Holy City, we must vanquish the foe. We must bear the cross before we can gain the crown. This, brother, is the philosophy of spiritual power and a home is prepared for them. Here comes in the brotherhood of man by a divine socialism, ruled and governed by a divine being. We can't erect a socialism without making self-sacrifices and taking God at his word. John saw the Holy City and it was inhabited like other cities and men lived in it and dwelt in it. By and by this will be a reality and the saints of God will enjoy it. Men have the idea already, but they are far from being qualified for this glorious period referred to.

Now, in conclusion, my brother, let me gently call your attention carefully to this synopsis and after you have deeply and earnestly thought it over, tell me whether you believe there will be a glorious period of time on earth or not. We've got the idea and the world has grasped it, and is preaching socialism, but it fails to understand the doctrine, and think it is a form of government erected by political men. Not so; the saints will surely inhabit it. "Your Friend, L."

A curious and interesting fact regarding what may be called "automobile poisoning" has been recently communicated to the Paris Society of Legal Medicine by Marcel Briand, as reported in La Nature. Says this paper: "The waste gases are capable, if the journey is a long one, of producing real symptoms of poisoning. Some automobilists have actually been obliged to give up their favorite sport because of the gases which, penetrating in small quantities even to the interior of the vehicle, cause them persistent trouble. The waste gases not being adapted for contact with our bronchial tubes, it is proper to notify the automobile makers that the floors of their machines should be made as tight as possible, in order that passengers may be protected from these products, which may, at the very least, cause distressing headaches."

SUPPORT PREACHERS.

To the News: Men are so inconsistent in what they would have people believe that the force of what they say has but little, if any, effect.

For instance, "Whitling Bill" thinks box suppers are all right for worldly institutions, but not right at the house of God. Does he wish the readers of the News to understand that wickedness is all right anywhere except at God's house? It seems that is his idea and conception of the matter. Nothing is all right that is wrong, no matter where it is practiced. He would compromise the christian religion while proposing to defend it. He admits there is drunkenness at these suppers but according to that, he says that is all right. Then he throws himself in direct opposition to the plain teachings of the Holy Book, the Bible. A man who so brazenly and openly undertakes to refute the teachings of Christ himself, should have no weight or influence where the church is concerned. Probably he never has read Luke the 10th chapter and 7th verse, or what Paul said to the brethren of Corinth, 14th chapter and 8th verse of 2nd Cor. Read the whole chapter, friend. This is twice you've attacked the church and I want you to read the Scripture, Malachi, 3rd chapter and 8th verse. When you've done this, then margin and see if you can't find lots more on the same subject.

Not a church in all this land but makes provisions for its ministers where such a church has a pastor. I expect if the truth was known you have never paid as much as five dollars in all your life to the support of the ministry, and less to support the widows and orphans you prate so much about yet you hold the fatherless children up as a scape goat to get rid of your duty toward the church, but you don't even hint about a poor, motherless child being thrown on the tender mercies of strangers. Of all the children in the world that excites my sympathies it is the motherless child, for a mother is more to a child than a father, and she cares for them better and will go through heat and cold for them when but few fathers will do it, but get rid of them as quickly as possible.

In your zeal for the widows and their children, please remember the motherless. Your position is untenable and you cannot sustain it by this saith the Lord. You seem to be afraid that some preacher will get rich in the giving his life and service to the church. I can't call to mind any rich preachers of any denomination at present, but I'll see if I can learn of any.

You refer to Will Kilgore and L. F. Tate as your kind of preachers. I guess they are good men—hope they are—but are they pastors of any church? If not there is a reason and that reason, sir, is because they know they can't live on air and water and wear nature's garb. They, I guess, fear they would have too many in their pastorate like you, about a ten-cent giver. Go to them and ask them why they are not in the regular work of the church and I'll wager they will tell you they have to work to supply their family. Ask them if they are really and truly satisfied with what they are doing and I'll venture they will tell you no. You held them up as a sample and you would place all other preachers in their condition and close the house of God as in the days of Nehemiah when the people absolutely refused to bring in their tithes and offerings, and God, by the mouth of Malachi, charged them of robbing him. This is just what you seem to want them to do in these days. You are walking in the footsteps of Judas in the case of the alabaster box of ointment and put in a plea for the poor. All Judases express great concern for the poor, but, sir, Christ must be first in all things.

Do you deny to the church and also to the poor, is the doctrine of Christ. Don't scab the church or blackleg it as too many, I fear, do. It's ridiculous and odious to all deep thinkers and true Bible christians. God erected the church by the hands of Moses and revealed himself to it through Christ, so the church is not the work of man, but of God. It's of God and all hell cannot overthrow it, and all the Judases on earth cannot jostle it. Your idea of cutting off the salary and wages of the pastors reveals the cloven foot and the hypocrisy that so taints you, and the subterfuge you use to hide behind will not do you any good. The person who contributes to the support of the ministry also is mindful of the poor and gives ten dollars for their benefit where men of your faith give one, and a motherless child is looked after and cared for. Of all orphans the motherless child has the hardest road to travel. Support the church, the widows and orphans, is the doctrine of the Bible and that real christians are always forward to do. No christian can afford to send out broadcast such stuff as you have done, nor will they, especially if right with God, and no real true christian, will endorse your letter. Hypocrites will but not christians, who believe in the word of God. You can dispute what I've said and turn your back on the passages I've referred you to, but when you do it you do exactly what Judas did and other traitors, too.
